THE TRUE HISTORY

OF CAPTAIN JOHN SWIFT, AS ESPECIALLY CONCERNS

His Mining Operations for Silver in What is Now Known as the Mountaineers' Part of Eastern Kentucky.

Interesting Reading.

WRITTEN BY ONE WHO KNOWS.

[CONCLUDED.]

A Memorandum of Captain John Swift's Travels to and from the Mines.

The following pages are verbatim copies of a journal as given by Capt. John Swift direct from his own hand.

"Left Alexandria, Va., June 25, 1761, came to Leesburgh, from Leesburgh to Winchester, from Winchester to Lytle's, from Lytle's to Tumbultons', from Tumbultons' to Fort Pitt (now Pittsburgh), from Fort Pitt to headwaters of Wheeling, from Wheeling to Little Kanawha, from Little Kanawha to Big Kanawha, from Big Kanawha to Guyandotte, from Guyandotte to Sandy, from Sandy to Longridge, from Longridge to a river, name not known, from unknown river to a large rocky creek (supposed to be Licking River), from large rocky creek up a smaller creek, (now Red River), to the place where we staid from the 18th of July until 27th of October. When left took the same road back to the settlement. On the 28th saw six Indians, but concealing ourselves, got clear of them. On the 30th was pursued by the Indians for some distance, but altering our course, got away safe. Nothing happened till 9th of November, on that day the Indians fired upon us. We returned the fire and made them retreat. We traveled hard the remainder of the winter, and camped on the Kanawha, after which nothing happened until we arrived at the settlement, which was the 24 of December.

"April 15, 1762, started for and arrived at the same place 10th of May without any difficulties except the loss of a gallon of rum, which was a loss to us in our situation. We started on the 10th of August, at night, camp at Spot Camp, and on the 2nd was alarmed by the Indians but got clear, camped on the creek; then caught the gyp and left a valuable prize, marking some trees with various marks, from which place we went to Cassel's woods, and from thence into Virginia, where we staid until the year 1764.

"May 1st, 1765, started the same and came by New River, from there to Holston River, from there to Cumberland Valley, crossing the mountains we set our course. Arrived at the place 28th of June and staid until 1st of September, when we started and went through Cassel's woods, and a man living there by the name of Castleman with whom we staid five days. From there we went to the settlement, arriving home 12th of October.

"Started from home on 1st of October, 1767, arrived at the place the 4th of November, where we staid until 1st of April, 1768, when we started for home; went by way of Sandy, meeting with nothing material on our way home, where we arrived 7th of May.

"We started back to same place 4th of June same year; arrived safe the place 5th of July, where we staid until 25th of October, where we staid until 1st of November, and went by way of Sandy, and at the forks lost two of our ponies, they being stolen by the Indians, which caused us to leave two horse loads, which was a great loss to us. From there we escaped with our lives. We arrived home on 1st December.

"In the year 1769 was at the same place again. I made three other trips which I kept no particular account of. We did no work scarcely on those trips, only remaind a short time get our load of metal and start back. In our trip of 1769 we came back by the route where we had left two valuable prizes in '62. We first left about thirty thousand dollars and crowns on a large creek running near a south course. Close by the foot we marked our names, Mundy, Swift, Jefferson, and one other name, on a beach tree, with compass, square and trowel. About twenty or thirty paces from the creek stands a smart rock, and betwixt it and the creek you will find a small rock of a bluish color, with three chops made with gristone by rubbing it on the rock. By the side of this rock is a small rock house with a spring in one end of it. Betwixt it and a small branch we hid it under the ground. It was in plate. We valued it at six thousand dollars. We likewise left several hundred dollars in the rock house. One of the furnaces we were in we hid money in the cracks of the rocks.

"Description of the country adjacent to the creek the furnaces are on: The reek's head southwest, runs generally a north-east course. The creek abounds with plenty of laurel, is so very difficult that it is almost impossible to get a horse near the place; so extremely difficult was the way we never took our horses nearer than six or seven miles from the place. There was quite a thicket of holly a quarter of a mile below the furnace; a small lick; a mile above there is a large buffalo lick; five miles from the small lick another water course we called Lick creek. The creek the furnaces are on forks three miles below the furnaces, and the left hand side is Furnace creek. Below the forks the creek is a smart stream of water running generally northeast direction. Between the forks and holly thicket find my name on a beach tree in the year 1767. About a mile below you will find Messrs. Guest, Mundy and Jefferson names in the years 1767-'65-'62. Near the last important forks of the creek, and between small lick and the furnace, is a remarkable rock. It hangs quite over the creek, and the water runs under it, giving it the appearance of a mountain bridge, which in reality it is. Mountains and hills covered with laurel so much so that a man cannot travel without great difficulty, the water courses being cleft on both sides, with here and there a gap where you might cross, making it difficult to travel through.

"In the year 1769 we made arrangements to abandon or quit the mines, as we had made as much money as we needed and we wanted a rest. We were being sent by the parties who were anxious to know where we got our silver from. On our last trip we took especial pains to destroy and erase all signs or vestige of our work. So well did we conceal the signs of our work of any kind that any one going there in about six months would see nothing to make them believe any work had been done there for a long period. We had considerably buried at different points in coin and plate or metal. We generally brought away from twelve to fifteen thousand dollars every year for four years, the other five years making two trips each year, we brought away over one hundred thousand dollars worth in coin and metal, leaving over fifty thousand dollars buried at different points on the routes.

"[Trouble was brewing at that time between Great Britain and the Colonies. Although an Englishman, Capt. Swift's sympathies were with the Colonies. Some time in the year 1770, Capt. Swift set sail for England with the intention of getting a mining company to come over and get legal possession of the mines, but had luck seemed to overtake him, and he was forced to leave his land, he got pressed on board a man-of-war, and for some misconduct he was cast into a dungeon, and it was while in there that he conceived the idea of his return to America.]

"It was several years after the close of the Revolutionary war before Capt. Swift returned to the United States of America, arriving at Alexandria in the year 1780, and settling near the same place.

"We will now relate a sad incident that happened on their ninth trip. While the four men were returning to the settlement, (as they did always go into Alexandria), when several days out on their journey, Wm. Guest's horse was bitten several times by a rattlesnake. In a short time the horse was unable to travel, and the four men of course were obliged to wish to get out of as soon as possible, so they had to leave the horse to his fate. He was loaded with Guest's goods, and they had to conceal it for the time being. Guest then demanded of the other men that on arriving at the settlement they divide their load into four equal shares. They were inclined to object to this, especially Mundy. Guest being a Spaniard, with a quick, hasty temper, said he would leave them and join the Indians and go and get all the silver they had hidden. He threatened to let the Indians on to them and killed Guest, saying: "I stop you from betraying us into the hands of the Indians." It was a great shock to them. There lay Guest, one of their most efficient hands, dead. They all had to indulge him at times when he would become harsh and impetuous. He and Mundy had had some wrangling at different times, and Guest would not impose on him. After we had buried his package of money we set about burying the remains of our co-laborer in the same tract where we were at, and between ourselves, in order to account for his absence, to state that on our return home that Guest and his pony was in advance of us and clattered upon a den of rattlesnakes, and his horse was so badly bitten that they both died. On benched knees they all swore to adhere to that statement.

"In 1770 the three parted near Alexandria, Jefferson going to Havana, Capt. Swift to England, Mundy remaining at Alexandria. It was agreed between the three that they would meet again, if living, just before the Christmas of 1772, and stay near Alexandria until the spring of '73, when they would go to the mines and get their money and plate they never met at different places, but they never met again. It was something over twelve years before Swift came back to Alexandria with health greatly impaired and eyesight injured. He sought to find Mundy, but no one could tell anything about him. An old man told Swift that he had seen him about six years before, and that he was drinking and reckless, but seemed to have plenty of money.

Two witnesses identified Hardin as one C. E. Leary, after the robbery he had plenty of money and purchased a billiard hall at Austin, Ill.

A DEATH CLOUD.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., ALMOST DEWASTATED BY ATERRIFIC TORNADO.

Several Squares In the Business Center of the City In Ruins—A Number Known to Be Killed, and the List May Be Increased.

THE CITY VEILED IN DARKNESS.

A terrible cyclone struck Little Rock, Ark., at 7:30 o'clock on the evening of Oct. 3, and almost devastated the business portion of the city. Several persons are known to have been killed and injured, while it is feared scores of others have met the same fate. The main portion of the business center, bounded on the south by Third street, on the north by the river front, on the west by Center street and on the east by Commerce street, is practically in ruins. The total property loss will probably approximate a million dollars. The cyclone was accompanied by a terrific rainfall, and the loss of goods in those businesses is so great that it is difficult to estimate. The houses were unroofed, though not otherwise wrecked, are destroyed by water.

Shortly after dark a heavy storm came from the west accompanied by vivid flashes of lightning and heavy clashes of thunder. The skies suddenly cleared and the storm was thought to be over, when suddenly a heavy gale from the south-west appeared and for three minutes the city was in the grip of a terrific storm. The wind was terrific in the extreme. Trees, telegraph, telephone and electric light poles were uprooted and carried a distance of 200 yards.

The roofs of about thirty of the largest buildings in the city were torn from the houses and hurled against buildings on the opposite side of the street, leaving the occupants and several persons within the mercy of the drenching rain, which began to fall in torrents shortly afterwards. When the cyclone had ceased it was discovered that the residence portion of the city had entirely escaped, but the wrecked district covers the principal business portion of the town.

The Western Union Telegraph office is located in the center of this district. This building was wrecked beyond recognition, the operators, who were at their keys, having narrow escapes. One of the operators was hurled only two feet from the large two story brick building recently vacated by the T. H. Jones Company. His escape from death was due to the fact that he was standing near the Western Union building. The bricks and timbers came crashing through the latter building, one of the bats striking Operator Culbert on the hip, inflicting a serious wound. He is at work, however, without a scratch other than the above mentioned. None of the other operators was injured.

Lightning struck the Martin block, corner of Spring and Second streets, totally wrecking the third floor. The Tilt building, on the corner of Center and Market streets, was unroofed and part of the fourth floor of Gleason's Hotel was blown away. At Main and Second streets, the tops of several adjacent buildings were piled up in an indescribable heap.

The worst damage, however, was done to property on Markham and Commerce streets, and in the vicinity of the district is unroofed, and many are totally wrecked. The large three-story building at Market and Cumberland, occupied by T. B. McCarthy & Co., is a total wreck, as is also the two story building on the opposite corner occupied by Max Elkins as a saloon. The third story of the old Denning house was blown off, and the several stories under it were flooded by water and filled with debris.

At 11 o'clock a message was received from the Insane Asylum two miles from the city, and the State penitentiary, just west of the Union depot, calling for a corps of physicians and other assistance. It is reliably stated that a number of the 600 patients at the asylum are fatally injured, and great numbers are doing the buildings. Mayor Hall, as soon as possible, called out the entire fire and police departments, and sent ten back loads of physicians and other personnel to the asylum and the penitentiary.

The city is in the densest darkness, and the streets are a veritable stream of mud and helplessness are being sought for the wounded, but a total list of casualties is utterly unobtainable. Intense excitement prevails, and it is impossible to learn the names of the killed and injured. All kinds of exaggerating reports are in circulation.

Through the heroic services of Mayor Hall and Chief of Police Frank Mahon the injured and helpless are being the best of attention. The loss to property alone will amount to at least one million dollars. Almost every building situated in the district was more or less damaged by the wind and water. The damage to the Insane Asylum will reach $100,000, that at the penitentiary $60,000 and the Capital and Richfield Hotels were badly damaged. Every window in both building was either broken to pieces or cracked. The business houses on East Markham street and Main, from Markham to Third, are damaged to a great extent. The roofs of a majority of these buildings were torn away and stocks of goods entirely ruined.

Capt. Samuel O. Smith, a prominent citizen and resident agent of the firm of E. Allgever & Co., cotton factors, was in his office writing a letter, when he heard that several wagons caved in. He reached the side walk a portion of a brick wall from a falling building on the opposite side of the street struck him on the head and back. Four fingers on his hand were broken. He will recover, though horribly cut and bruised.

John Edwards with an infant baby in his arms, was found dead on Second street by the police. An aged negro couple were also found dead in a room of a roofless cabin in the same locality.

The relief corps was sent out at 11 o'clock, and up to midnight the above relief corps, and electric street cars, are pinned on the track on Main street with heavy raftings and poles. These motors are a total loss. Gov. Fishback's quarters, in the Martin block, are a mass of ruins.

A reporter visited the penitentiary at midnight. The roofs of the main cell buildings were torn away and lodged on several frame cottages in a neighborhood, which were completely demolished. A stampede took place among the convicts, but Superintendent McConnell and his assistants were quick to quell the riot. Fortunately only about 125 convicts are inside the walls. The other 450 were taken to Sunnyside plantation some days ago.

Leaving there the reporter drove out to the Insane Asylum. Here was found the greatest wreck. The roofs of the main buildings were completely demolished, and several persons were completely destroying everything inside. The male ward is a total wreck. Several insane patients made their escape, but were recaptured. Two men violently insane were captured near the Union depot shortly after midnight. It is not known how many inmates were killed or injured, as many are supposed to be buried in the ruins. Confusion is so great to learn any thing tonight.

Dr. Jacob T. Ingate, who came here several months ago from Mobile, Ala., accepted a position in the asylum, was killed. He is buried beneath the ruins of the building. The loss to the buildings and contents of the asylum will reach $125,000. This is considered a conservative estimate.

Telegraph operators are a scarce commodity in Little Rock tonight. Mr. Newton, of the Western Union is at work with a force of men, and is erecting a line of the debris from the main office, and not a wire is working from that point. The reporter finally ran across Mr. J. M. Gilbert, who had been sent to the Union depot office to find out the location of the accumulated business, where he was found, and sent this dispatch over the wires of a railroad entering here. He is suffering from his bruises, but sticking heroically to his post.

The Next State Convention. The indications now are that the Democratic State Convention next year will be quite a tame affair compared with similar quadrennial gatherings. There are but two candidates for Governor, and only one for Lieutenant-Governor, and only one for Attorney-General, and only one for the State Senate, and only one for the State House of Representatives. It is highly probable that after the county primaries Hardin will have such a large vote that he will be nominated by acclamation.

Several candidates have been spoken of for Lieutenant-Governor, but popular Dick Taylor, of Hickman, is the only one positively announced, and he is certain to be the man.

For Auditor, Maj. L. C. Norman, the present incumbent, has no opposition. For State Treasurer there are several candidates, but politicians all over the State concede that none of them are in it with our countyman, Judge W. H. Gardner, who will be beaten.

El Porter Thompson will be endorsed for Superintendent of Public Instruction, as he has made a splendid official, and just as he is to be beaten.

Swango has no opposition for Register of the Land Office.

Col. Jon B. Hall has nailed down the position of Commissioner of Agriculture.

Gen. Jack Harrison is running for Attorney-General without opposition.

The only real race in prospect, is for Second State between Metcalf, Hale and Hendley—Elizabethtown News.

Recovering from the slough. The comparative statement of receipts and expenditures of the Treasury, received the 1st of the month, showed that the finances of the Government are recovering from the slough of despond into which Harrison's administration had run them. During the first three months of the last fiscal year the expenditures exceeded the receipts by almost a million dollars, while for the first three months of the present fiscal year the excess is not quite one million. The receipts last week were more than the expenditures.

INTERVIEW WITH JUDGE BECKNER.

The People Enthusiastic and His Prospects Flattering.

Judge W. M. Beckner, Democratic candidate for the short term in Congress, was at home last week, and one of the Winchester Democrat reporters dropped in on him for an interview.

"What do you think of your prospects?" was asked.

"They are very flattering indeed," he answered. "I have been over twelve of the sixteen counties in the District and the Democrats are wide awake and greatly strengthened by the improvement in business since the repeal of the McKinley act."

"Where have you been this week, Judge?"

"In Elliott county, where I spoke Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday."

"Was Mr. Bosley with you?"

"No; I left him at Hindman last Tuesday week. He said that he was going from there in search of Mr. Hopkins, whom he had never seen. It was as touching as the departure of Jason in search of the Golden Fleece, or the legendary quest for the Holy Grail. I invited him to be with me at Martinsburg last Monday, but as he did not come, I suppose he is still on the trail of the preaching candidate."

"Is Mr. Hopkins making any speeches?"

"Oh, no. He can't. He knows nothing about public questions, and his party does not want him to appear in public, because if he did, he would show his entire want of qualification for the position he aspires to fill. He has been moved since his nomination to an unwelcome activity in preaching. I see that the Sun quotes me as speaking slightly of Mr. Hopkins as merely "an old Baptist minister." Of course I did nothing of the kind. I said that as far as I had heard he is a good man, and ought not to be taken from so noble a calling as the ministry, in which he seems to be useful, to be sent to Congress where he would be of no service. I served with him in the Legislature last winter and know whereof I speak. He had no standing at Frankfort as a legislator, and it cannot be said that it was because of his politics. There were Republicans in the House, such as Tom Kirk, of Johnson, and Dr. Bowman, of Lewis, who were frequently heard in debate and who had influence with their colleagues. Mr. Hopkins was nominated as a vote-catcher, but the Baptists of Eastern Kentucky do not mix their religion with politics. That church suffered too much in its earlier history from those who were trying to combine church and State to commit such folly themselves."

"What are Mr. Hopkins' religious views, Judge?"

"He is a Free-will Baptist. I want to repeat here what I have always said about him. Since he has been nominated he has been seized with a great zeal in his Master's service, which is hardly consistent with his desire to go to Washington. I have made no criticism of him that is in any sense ungenerous or unkind, or that he would not confess to be true."

"What do you and Mr. Bosley discuss?"

"Mr. Bosley talks about little else save protection. He enlivens it a little occasionally with a rhapsody on the humbug called reciprocity. He is the most rabid protectionist I ever heard talk."

"We have heard that he admits wool has gone up in price since it was put on the free list?"

"Yes; he did at Mt. Sterling and in his speech at the Courthouse in Winchester. He gave it up at Mt. Sterling, however, and said that the only way he could account for it was that the people had become scared lest wool would be made free and had disposed of their sheep. He did not explain why it should happen that the sheep were all gotten rid of the day the Democratic tariff bill went into effect. Wool has always gone down in price when a high tariff was imposed on it, and goes up when the duty is removed."

"Do you believe that free lumber will hurt the Democrats in the Eastern part of the State?"

"Of course not. The McKinley bill did not protect our lumber in any sense. It has not a cent of duty on logs or even the sawed lumber. The latter must be planned before it gets any protection, which means of course that the manufacturer and not the man who furnishes the timber or even saws the boards is benefited. I have defied Mr. Bosley to show where the Republican party has ever protected any lumber that the Eastern part of this State furnishes. He cannot do it, and the people cannot be beguiled. Canada has been sending us logs and lumber under the McKinley bill as freely as it did before. The truth is that Canada does not produce yellow poplar, and its white pine cannot affect our lumber trade. Yellow pine from the South supplants in tongue and groove stuff some of our lumber, but this is not affected by the tariff."

"What else does Mr. Bosley orate about?"

"Oh, he dodges everything save protection, and this he discusses in a general way. He never comes down to particulars in any respect. He steers clear of the silver question and seems opposed to the income tax. The people treat his candidacy as fun, and do not believe that he is foolish enough to believe that he has any chance of success."

"Where do you go next, Judge?"

"To Martin and Johnson. I am billed for Eden Saturday and Paintsville Monday."

"How are the crops in the mountains?"

"I never saw them better. Corn is universally good. There is a fine mast and elements especially are very abundant. The failure of this for two years past has made money close in the mountains. The people cannot get pay for their logs until they have reached the rivers."—Winchester Democrat, 5th inst.

FLYING JIB

Lowest the World's Great Racing Record at Chillicothe, Ohio.

At the Chillicothe, Ohio, driving park, on the 4th inst., Flying Jib beat all harness racing records by pacing a mile in 1:58.1. He was driven by Andy McDowell. Ten thousand people saw the race.

After taking a turn around the track, Andy McDowell, the only driver who ever drove a pacer in less than two minutes, mounted the seat and took the reins.

He drove the team up around the loop of the kite, and before the audience knew what was up, down came the wire.

As he passed the wire McDowell nodded and the heat was on. The pair were going a terrific clip, Flying Jib leading the runner to the half, which was made in :59 flat.

The gait was a hot one still, and he kept even pace with the runner and shot under the wire amid the hushed silence of 10,000 people, who eagerly strained forward awaiting starter Loper's announcement of the time. The audience fairly went wild, and Starter Loper had to ring the bell to get order.

Then he said: "You have witnessed that which no audience in the world has ever before seen. You have seen the fastest mile that was ever paced. Flying Jib has beaten Westmont and made the mile in 1:58.1."

The audience once more went wild and applauded the pacer as McDowell brought him up in front of the judges. He took off his cap and acknowledged the honor that was paid him.

The mile Jib went and the time made are all the more remarkable when it is taken into consideration that all day a strong wind was blowing and that the air was cold, the wind caught the horse as he came up the rear stretch, but he paced ahead just the same.

The first half of the heat was made in :59 and the last in :59.1. The quarters could not be taken, as the flagmen were not aware that the start was to be made; they weren't at their posts at the quarter and three-quarter poles.

A SUGAR TRUST HUMOR.

The latest rumor which has reached Republican headquarters is one to the effect that the Democratic campaign managers have entered into an agreement with the Sugar Trust that the wholesale price of sugar shall not be increased until the November elections. After the elections, it is claimed, the campaign managers do not care what the price of sugar is. The trust people, so the story goes, have gladly agreed to this in return for the many favors which the Democratic party has conferred upon it in the Senate tariff bill and securing the enactment of the present law. It is alleged that the Democratic Campaign Committee will issue a statement from the official records of the Produce Exchange at Philadelphia showing that the wholesale price of sugar has not been increased by the passage of the sugar trust bill. These figures, running back for four years, will show that whatever variations there may have been in quotations of granulated sugar, there has been none since the Gorman bill became a law. The Republican Campaign Committee had an intimation some days ago that the Democrats were about to put forth a statement of this sort to counteract the effect which the action of the retail dealers throughout the country has had upon the popular vote. The retail price of sugar has been increased on an average of one cent per pound.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A headache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which involves a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without resort to medicine. It is a sure cure for a cold bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by John M. Rose.

Put Out in Just Ten Seconds.

Our citizens to the number of two or three hundred gathered on the burnt district here, on last Monday afternoon at two o'clock, to witness the exhibition made by the Cincinnati Tin and Japan Fire Extinguisher Co. The test was given under the personal supervision of Mr. Herman B. Wells, president of the company, of Cincinnati, and Mr. W. V. Snyder, the local agent, of Georgetown, Ohio, and was satisfactory in every respect, clearly demonstrating the Stemple Extinguisher to be one of the best methods yet devised or invented for the controlling of fire.

A structure of pine boards was built, and after being thoroughly saturated with coal-oil, a match was applied. The extinguisher was then turned on and the fire put out in about ten seconds. All who witnessed the test were thoroughly satisfied that the Stemple will do all and more than is claimed for it. The headquarters of the company are at E. Cor. Spearmen and Canal Sts., Cincinnati—Winchester (Ohio) Herald.

MUSIC BY ELECTRICITY.

Wonderful Organ Just Erected in a New York Church.

With the recent completion of its new organ, St. Bartholomew's Church now takes rank in its musical equipments with the finest in the world, says the New York Sun. This great organ, which is divided into three widely separated parts, exceeds in size any similar instrument in this country, with the possible exception of that of the Auditorium in Chicago. The organ in the Cathedral at Garden City, L. I., was planned on a greater scale, but is not complete.

The unique feature of St. Bartholomew's organ is that it is operated throughout by electricity, which is applied to the entire key, pedal and stop action. Instead of the old fashioned mass of levers and rods there are miles and miles of silk-wound wires crossing and recrossing within and stretching in a bewildering maze from keys to pipes. There are several electrical organs in churches in this city in which large magnets and powerful currents are necessary, but this vast organ, with its 5,559 pipes, requires only five magnets and a current of three volts for the entire instrument.

The installation of the new organ required a period of fifteen months of careful work. The instrument was built by George S. Hutchings, of Boston. R. H. Warren, the organist, superintended the work. About eighteen months ago the church of St. Bartholomew's was enlarged and the choir was moved from the rear to the front of the church. There was a very good organ in the gallery at the time, but with the moving of the choir a chancel organ became necessary. Then the idea was conceived of using the old gallery organ as one of the subdivisions of the new one, the other two portions to be placed one on each side of the chancel. To do this effectively part of the old choir organ was moved to the south division of the chancel and much enlarged by the addition of several hundred pipes.

The gallery division is the largest of the three, and contains part of the great swell and pedal organs, together with the entire solo organ. The next division, in point of size is in a recess at the south of the chancel. It contains part of the swell organ and the pedal dulciana. All the pipes that were retained from the old organ have been carefully revoiced and their pitch lowered to the present international pitch. The huge organ is controlled by one performer at the 4-manual keyboard.

The key and stop action of the organ is new and is being patented. In organs of the old style pressure upon a key worked a series of levers to produce the tone, but in this organ pressure upon a key makes an electrical contact, by means of which a small magnet at the pipe is made to draw down a diaphragm. This permits air to pass from the wind chest into a small bellows, which in filling acts as an engine and opens the valve proper to the pipe. The use of the electrical agent insures an immediate response to the touch of the performer and renders the action practically noiseless. The stops all work on the same principle. The solo organ and part of the choir organ are enclosed in special swell boxes. These are really shutter devices, by the opening and closing of which the tones of the enclosed pipes may be shaded from pianissimo when shut to fort when open. One of the swell boxes has two sets of shutters for the rendering of the finest effects and contrasts in shading. Each portion of the swell proper and the solo and choir swells are controlled by four individual pedals. By means of a small locking pedal the mechanism of all four of these pedals may be coupled and operated simultaneously.

It is possible by these means to produce the marvelously exquisite effects of tone-color and crescendo and decrescendo that are only equalled by a large and perfectly trained orchestra. The shutters in one division of the organ are built of slate three inches in thickness, and when they are closed the notes seem to steal out with the mellow pleading of a distant lute. When all the pedals have been coupled and rise to a crescendo the great harmony peals out until the whole church seems to vibrate. What may be most quickly noted in the music of the organs are the breadth of tone and sonorousness of the diapasons and the delicate and characteristic string tone of the instrument.

To operate the huge organ three electric motors are used for the bellows. These motors are of one, two and three horse power, and are thrown into action by a small key to the right of the desk. This key also lights two incandescent globes beneath the stop rack, which serves to illuminate the fifty-one pedal keys and pedal stops. The current used is led in from the street wires, and its high voltage is reduced by a direct current transformer inside the south division of the organ.

An adjustable combination action is applied to the manual, pedal stops, and couplers of both the chancel portions of the instrument. The action of this contrivance is controlled by knobs beneath the swell, great, and choir manuals, and upon these knobs any combination of stops may be arranged or changed while the organist is playing. This may be done without disturbing any stops that may be drawn by registers. An idea of the size and power of the organ may be obtained from the following: There are 5,570 pipes and 23 couplers, 3 tremolos, 19 adjustable combination knobs and 20 pedal movements, which, added to the 87 "speaking stops," make a total of 152 stops. The largest pipe in the instrument is the contra bassoon in the gallery division. It is 32 feet high.

DEMOCRATS WILL RESIST.

To Fight the New York Republican Gerrymander Before the People.

Last Friday was practically the closing day of the New York State Constitutional Convention. The chief bone of contention has been the apportionment for future senatorial and assembly districts. The Republican majority claims that the apportionment is fair to all concerned, but the Democratic minority claims that it discriminates against the large cities in favor of the country districts, and that the discrimination was unfair to the Democratic party as a whole. It was voted to split the bill into sections, though the sections are not as numerous as the leaders of the Democratic minority would have preferred. The measure will be submitted to the people in the form of three ballots. The first ballot provides for the adoption of twenty-nine articles, the second for the apportionment article, and the third for the canal improvement measure.

President Cloate appointed a committee to prepare an address to the people, explaining the work of the convention. The Democrats refused to serve, and the Republicans were finally compelled to prepare the address without their assistance. The Democrats assert that they will prepare another address, denouncing the address prepared by the majority. The majority address explains that of the 400 amendments proposed only thirty-one have been accepted. These amendments provide for the separation in the larger cities of the municipal elections from the National and State elections, for the prohibition of lotteries, pool selling, book-making and all forms of gambling, for the abolition of the statutory provision limiting the right to recovery for injuries causing death to $5,000, for the prevention of the naturalization of foreigners during a period of nine days previous to a general election, for the adoption of the most approved mechanical devices in elections, for the establishment of a system of registration, for a new apportionment of Senate and Assembly districts, fixing the number of Senators at fifty and the number of Assemblymen at 150, for the enforcement of the principle of civil service reform, and for the prohibition of the contract system of convict labor.

NOW LET THEM FIGHT.

Corbett Comes Down a Notch and Covers Fitzsimmons' Forfeit Money.

William A. Brady, James J. Corbett's manager, has telegraphed the New York stakeholder to transfer the $1,000 deposited with him in behalf of Steve O'Donnell to Corbett's name to cover the deposit made by Fitzsimmons for a fight with the champion. This amount, with $9,000 to be deposited with David W. Blanchard, of Boston, will make up the $10,000 mentioned by Corbett in his ultimatum issued some time since.

Corbett, in an interview with a gentleman in Hartford, Conn., said that he had covered Fitzsimmons' money in New York.

"What have you to say," asked the reporter, "to Fitzsimmons' reply to your sweeping challenge?"

"There is no reply to make," Corbett replied. "Fitzsimmons is probably not aware of the fact that I have covered his money in New York. I had $1,000 up to match O'Donnell against Fitzsimmons, and I have telegraphed to have it transferred to cover Fitzsimmons' challenge. I will meet Fitzsimmons in New York soon to make final arrangements. I will also meet any other heavy-weight or any other weight in the world the same day. As many of them as like to come with $10,000 I will meet all in one week any time after the first of next July that they wish to choose."

"The public, no doubt, are paralyzed at this declaration I have made, but nevertheless I have the money, and if any one thinks I am bluffing or foolish, all they have to do is to put up $10,000 and make me look like a monkey before the world if I am not in earnest. I will meet all heavy weights, or any other weights in the world that have $10,000, beginning with Fitzsimmons. I am tired and sick of the pugilistic business and want to retire, and after I retire no one can throw it up in my face that I have not defended the championship of America against the world."

We have said so much about a railroad to Hazel Green, and have been so often disappointed, that for some time past we have held aloof. Now, however, we have "a straight tip," to use the language of the gentleman who gives us the information, and we can state with reasonable assurance that Hazel Green will have a railroad within eighteen months or two years. All we have to do, i. e. the people along and adjacent to the line running from Roethwell is to keep a stiff upper lip and demonstrate a willingness to aid in the good work by granting right of way and ties, and a railroad is not only possible but extremely probable. THE HERALD has always entertained the idea that Hazel Green is on the most available route to the seaboard from Cincinnati, and that eventually this eligible location would secure for her a railroad; provided, of course, that the people are willing to contribute in ties, etc., and the latest information we have is to the effect that our idea has not been entertained in vain. Like Rome railroads are not built in a day, and notwithstanding all our disappointments we have never been discouraged to the point that we ceased to hope. She will come if we but do our duty.

Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge, of Lexington, will address the people at the Court-house in Jackson on Monday next, and those who are fortunate enough to attend will hear the finest bit of oratory to which they were ever treated. Not only so, but they will be enlightened on national affairs, and the difference between Democratic reform and Republican robbery made so plain that "a wayfaring man, though a fool," will be forced to the conviction that the Democratic party is the party of the people, God and hear him.

Hazel Green Academy promises to have the best attendance this year that it has yet enjoyed, which is saying a good deal. We hear of several families who contemplate moving to this place to take advantage of the educational facilities offered at the Academy, and the additions thus brought in, together with the large attendance from abroad, will swell the matriculates to a number of no small magnitude. Prof. Cord is an indefatigable worker, and his labors to build up a great school are meeting with a richly deserved reward that should be extremely gratifying to the C. W. B. M. and all friends of education.

Mrs. Rosa Vertner Jeffrey, one of the most distinguished literary ladies of the Southland, died at her home in Lexington on Saturday night last, aged 67 years. She was born at Natchez, Miss., but when only one year old she was adopted by Mrs. Daniel Vertner, and reared in Louisiana under the tutorage of Bishop B. B. Smith, of the Episcopal Church. She wrote her first poem, "My Childhood Home," when only 10 years of age, since which she has given to the country some of her sweetest thoughts and its sweetest songs. Few women were better loved by rich and poor alike.

WHAT THE BOYS THINK OF US.

The Morgan County Messenger suggests Spencer Cooper, the editor and proprietor of the HAZEL GREEN HERALD, as the next Representative from that district. We second the motion of the Messenger, remembering that it is not our say. We would be glad to see him have the honor.—Hustler.

The Morgan County Messenger of the 30th ult. contained an editorial favoring Spencer Cooper as the next Representative in the State Legislature from the counties of Morgan and Wolfe. Mr. Cooper is the editor of the HAZEL GREEN HERALD, has done much to develop the resources in the Eastern part of the State, and would be a creditable Representative for the people of that district.—Sentinel Democrat.

Spencer Cooper, of the HAZEL GREEN HERALD, has been prominently mentioned as a candidate for the Legislature from Wolfe and Morgan. Mr. Cooper is an energetic and progressive man, has done much to develop the resources of his section, and is eminently qualified in every way to fill the office. The good people of these counties would do the proper thing by giving him the nomination by acclamation.—Winchester Democrat.

Our library is now at the Home, where all matriculates can get books and periodicals to read. Persons not members of the school may get books from the library by first depositing a fee of $1.00, which will entitle the person to the use of the library for ten months.

For Sheriff.

We are authorized to announce SAM TERRY WILSON as a candidate for sheriff of Wolfe county, subject only to the will of the people at the polls in November, 1894.

THIS PAPER is at home print, and if you want all the good things it contains you should read every article on each of the eight pages. You will find all the local news that way.

Mrs. Isaac Murphy and Mrs. Wm. H. Murphy, of Murphy fork of Grassy, paid us a pleasant call on Wednesday.

WANTED.—The editor of this paper wishes to purchase 25 bushels of corn suitable for fattening hogs. Cash.

Chas. H. Shepard, agent for the Equitable Life Insurance Co., of New York, is a guest of the Day House this week.

Rose & Swango started Wednesday to Mt. Sterling with a nice drove of cattle, 81 head, many of these as nice as blue grass stock.

Mrs. James Lucy, who has been quite sick for a week or ten days, is now sufficiently convalesced to be about her household duties.

To all of those gentlemen who assisted us in the removal of our Campbell cylinder press on Monday we return our most sincere thanks.

Thousands of new patrons have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla this season and realized its benefit in blood purified and strength restored.

"Do you wear pants?" is the attractive heading of the Kentucky Jeans Clothing Co., Louisville, every line of which you should read.

Swango and Pieratt, of this place, started Wednesday for Mt. Sterling with 103 cattle, as good as have been picked up in the mountains for a long time.

Henry L. Godsey will address the people of Campton Saturday in the interest of the Democratic party, and we bespeak for him a good crowd and marked attention.

Mrs. Ellen Pieratt, after an extended trip to relatives and friends at Lexington, and a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Grant Thomas, of St. Helena, returned home Monday, much pleased by her visit.

W. T. Caskey was thrown from a horse on Tuesday evening last and sustained a severe strain of one of his ankles, in consequence of which he has been walking with the aid of a crutch and cane since.

Charley Uhl, representing Reed, Peebles & Co., Portsmouth, Ohio, informs us that he will be here about the 15th inst., with a full line of samples, and requests that the merchants hold orders for him.

Mrs. F. N. Day is just now opening her fall and winter stock of hats, dress goods, trimmings, wraps, etc., etc., which must be seen to be appreciated. She respectfully invites the ladies of Hazel Green and vicinity to call and inspect before purchasing.

Charley Gosney, after making up his sorghum and gathering his corn, returned to town Wednesday, and can be found at the shop of John H. Rose. While at home his wife introduced to him a new girl baby, and Charley says he thinks she's a Democrat.

S. S. Combs, of Campton, sent to this office two double or twin walnuts, each pair of which very much resemble a fat pawpaw. What is the country coming to, anyway? Everything in produce seems to have been prolific this year—double, treble, quadruple, sextuple, etc.

Do you know that John H. Rose, of this place, is prepared to build you a better wagon and for less money than you can buy factory work. Fact! Look at his ad. in this paper, and if you want a tip-top article give him a call. He also does repairing in all branches of his business.

Oscar Cecil, one of the most progressive farmers of Morgan county, has the thanks of the editor and his better—[for a mess of the finest sweet potatoes we have seen this season. We did not weigh them, but they are very large, and we doubt if there was anything produced this year, in this section, that equals them.

George W. Nickell, of Lacy creek, this county, has sold all of his stock and will shortly move to Bates county, Missouri, where he has two sons, his only children. Mr. Nickell was 64 years old the first day of the present month, and his sons having impertuned he and their mother to come and live with them the rest of their days, Mr. and Mrs. Nickell will start soon. His sons are named Jeff and Will, respectively, and are said to be doing quite well.

David Rose has rented the Pieratt property from J. E. Quicksall, and will move his family to it about the first of November. Mr. Quicksall will move to the dwelling owned by the Mill Company, and Mr. Bailey, who now occupies it, will move to a nearby residence also owned by the company.

Mr. Quicksall, who now has charge of the mill at this place, is engaged in overhauling the machinery, after which he will be prepared to make flour, saw lumber, etc., and in this connection wants to buy a lot of timber. He will put in a planing mill soon, and endeavor to keep a supply of ceiling, flooring, etc., on hand for sale at all times.

John H. Pieratt, John H. Rose and J. W. Cravens, of Hazel Green, and Robert G. Rose, of Lee City, will leave Sunday for Louisville. The first named gentleman goes as delegate from Mizpah Lodge 507 to the Grand Lodge, which meets in that city the coming week, while the others will visit the Grand Lodge and see the sights in the Falls City.

Mrs. H. T. Corl and Mrs. R. B. Corl, of Mason county, who have been visiting here for ten days or two weeks past, left for home this morning, much to the regret of all who met them. They are mother and sister-in-law, respectively, of Prof. W. H. Corl, and were visiting he and his wife. All the ladies who called upon them were much pleased with them, and on behalf of the town we hope they will find it convenient to come again and stay longer.

Note the change in the advertisement of W. W. Reed, of Mt. Sterling. He is just now in receipt of the largest shipment of heating and cooking stoves ever brought to that city, and he says he bought them at a price that will enable him to sell them lower than they were ever offered before. If you happen to be in Mt. Sterling next week, or the near future, be sure and give Mr. Reed a call, if you need anything in his line. You will be well treated whether you make a purchase or not. But why extend this notice, the advertisement speaks for itself and Mr. Reed will verify every statement he makes in that when you see him face to face.

Wanted. Nice fresh butter every week at the Academy Home, for which I will pay cash 12 cents per pound. I would like to engage some person or persons to furnish me 12 pounds a week. I will also pay cash, from 81 to 121 cents apiece, for chickens delivered at the Home. Want live dozen. Wm. H. Cord.

That greasy suit you now have on, the other's up the spout, maybe, or perhaps worn out. Anyhow you need a new one, and you've got the money to buy it. Why do you persist in wearing that back number suit cut after the pattern of your grand father's frock Sunday-go-to-meeting garment of a hundred years ago, when you can go to Sharp, Trimble & Denton, Mt. Sterling, and buy an up-to-date baby suit that will show you off to an advantage? "Clothes don't make the man," but they make the young man more presentable to his best girl than he otherwise would be, and if you don't deck up a little that other fellow will cut you out.

Meeting of Directors. The Directors of the Hazel Green Fair Association are requested to meet Friday, Oct. 19, 1894. A full attendance is expected, as there is business of importance to attend to.

H. F. Pieratt, President. Do you need any plows, harrows, or other farming implements? No. Well, maybe you want a good cooking stove or heater for the parlor. That oldest girl of yours will want to entertain her best beau on Sunday afternoons during the coming winter, and you know he is a good catch, so you had better have the parlor in apple-order. You can't do it unless you have a nice, bright stove, and there is no place in the country where you can do better than at Ed Mitchell's, of Mt. Sterling. He also carries a full line of cutlery, glassware, etc., and if the wedding day has been arranged you can start her to housekeeping with the purchase you can make there.

The Best Ever Used. Mr. E. W. Young, of West Rutland, Vermont, writes under date of September 26th, as follows: "I have given Quinn's Ointment a thorough trial and find it the most effective remedy I have ever used. I heartily recommend it to all horsemen." This is the universal expression of the leading breeders and horsemen throughout the United States. For curbs, splints, spavins, windpuffs and all bunches it has no equal. Trial box 25 cents silver or stamps. Regular size $1.50 delivered. For sale by John M. Rose.

Now is a good time to purchase your wife that handsome winter dress you have been promising her for the past year, and you can find no better place to do so than at the store of Samuel & King, of Mt. Sterling, which is truly fashion's emporium for Eastern Kentucky. There they have everything that fancy fashions in seasons wool, and with such an immense stock to select from you can hardly fail to make a selection suitable to your good wife's taste. Now, don't put off buying her that dress, for she has helped you for years in the effort to keep the wolf from the door, and if you are the man you should be you will admit that it was her little savings, more than anything else, that made it possible to prevent his entrance. Go, therefore, and buy her a nice dress. Or, if she already provided in that respect buy that pair of blankets, that sheeting, or that domestic you have perhaps promised her, and remember that Samuel & King, Mt. Sterling, hold out greater inducements than anybody.

"So Clean" is the finest pure white soap ever introduced here. It is better than Cashmere Bouquet for the toilet, superior to Ivory for fine laundry, and ahead of Sapolo for the kitchen. One cake, 10c; 2 for 15c; 4 for 25c. Sold at this office only.

The Electropoise gave me complete relief from excruciating pain in three applications. I also find it good for treating children for their numerous ailments.—(C. T. Soden, with Bridgeton Co., Louisville, Ky.)

Mr. G. W. Eliot, of Skylight, Ky., says: "I suffered for years with my kidneys, inflammation of the bladder and enlargement of the prostate gland. After a short trial of the Electropoise I am entirely relieved, and feel twenty years younger."

I have derived more benefit from the use of Electropoise than from all other remedies combined. I think it the grandest invention of the age. It cannot be praised too highly.—(Mrs. M. E. Gorman, Sadville, Ky.)

John H. Davis, Esq., of Barbourville, Ky.: "The Electropoise is the best all-round doctor I know of. My wife suffered from the effects of la grippe for several years; also a complication of other ailments. Now she is entirely well. Indigestion bothered me a great deal—am now well. WHAT IS GOOD.

"What is real good?"
I asked in a musing mood.
"Order," said the law court;
"Knowledge," said the school;
"Truth," said the wise man;
"Pleasure," said the fool;
"Love," said the maiden;
"Beauty," said the page;
"Freedom," said the dreamer;
"Home," said the sage;
"Fame," said the soldier;
"Equity," said the seer.
Spoke my heart full sadly:
The answer is not here.
Then within my bosom,
Softly this I heard:
"Each heart holds the secret;
Kindness is the word."
—JOHN BOYLE O'REILLY.

Market baskets made of wire, covered with a light cloth, and which fold into a small space, are to be brought out.

Best steel castings made for the United States navy have a tenacity of 65,000 to 75,000 pounds to the square inch.

It was twenty-nine days from the casting of the Lick objective glass before it had cooled sufficiently for safe removal.

Glass, copper, zinc, lead, platinum, carbon, plaster, petroleum, silk, cotton and paper are used in the manufacture of incandescent lamps.

Platinum has been drawn into wire so fine that eighteen strands of it twisted together could be inserted into the hollow of a human hair.

A bar of pine just as heavy as a bar of steel one inch square, will hold up 125,000 pounds; the best ash 175,000 pounds, and some hemlock 200,000.

The world's chief supply of platinum comes from the Ural mountains and the mines are being worked to their utmost capacity, with orders for two years ahead.

At least 500 years before the Christian era the Egyptians had axes of various styles, chisels, mallets, planes and saws, together with levels, rules, rollers, wheels and pulleys.

Has Money to Burn.

The death of Frederick Ryan, a capitalist of San Francisco, Cal., in a railroad accident near Yonkers, N. Y., a few days ago, has made Mabel Ryan Edwards heiress to a large fortune. Two years ago Mabel lived with her father, the capitalist, at Pittsburgh, Pa. She became stage-struck and eloped with Clarence Edwards, a mere boy. Mabel was then only sixteen.

The pair went to Chicago, Mabel performing in an "Illusion" and "Living Picture" at the World's Fair. Then they came to California, and Mabel worked at the Midwinter Fair as the serial lady, who floats through space in an illusion. Edwards managed his wife's finances. She subsequently performed in several dance halls in this city, and a few weeks ago left with her husband for Portland, Oregon.

THE VOTE LIGHT IN GEORGIA.

The Democratic Ticket Elected by a Good Majority.

A lighter vote was polled in the Georgia State election on the 3d inst. than was cast two years ago. The Democratic ticket was elected by a majority estimated at 30,000. Atkinson, Democrat, for Governor, ran behind his ticket. Many old soldiers either scratched him or voted for Hines, Populist. Reports from over the State show that the Populists have made gains in almost every county. Indications are that the Populists will have thirty or forty members in the next Legislature, but not enough to affect the Democratic control. Fulton county, outside of Atlanta, went for the Populist ticket. The Democratic ticket elected is as follows:

Governor—Wm. V. Atkinson.
Secretary of State—Allen D. Calder.
Treasurer—R. U. Hardeman.
Attorney General—J. M. Terrell.
Controller General—Wm. A. Wright.
Commissioner of Agriculture—Robert T. Nesbitt.

The election passed off quietly throughout the State, so far as heard from. The principal interest centered in the vote in the Tenth Congressional District as indicative of the coming contest between J. C. C. Black, Democratic nominee, and ex-Congressman Thomas E. Watson, Third party leader. The Third party vote there has been reduced in several instances from figures of the last Congressional election. Full returns have not been received. Very little interest was manifested in the election, and the vote in November will be much heavier for both parties. Richmond, the leading county in the Tenth District, will give a Democratic majority of 2,690.

The Islet of Masowia, in the Red Sea, where Italy is sending its Anarchists, is one of the hottest places in the world, and escape from it in that sterile region would be very difficult.

The United States Consul at Odessa, Russia, reports to the State department that of 729 cases treated at the leprosy station for a year for hydrophobia by the Pasteur method but six died, all children.

Philadelphia is likely to lose a notable monument in the noble old elm tree that has so long overshadowed Walnut street just below Broad. Mrs. Dundas Lippincott, who has long defended the old tree from threatened destruction, has just died, and it is likely soon to be removed. The great tree shadows the whole width of the street, and its large limbs overhang the opposite side walk.

The long, stiff leaves of a pineapple plant are so formed that a heavy dew or a light rain will give nourishment to the roots. Each leaf is a conductor which leads the water to the heart of the plant, where it collects in a diminutive reservoir, allowing the plant to drink the fluid at its leisure. It is not rare to see a small green frog sitting in this pool of water, and he gazes at the observer with a look of solid enjoyment, as if the whole arrangement was created for his special comfort.

The French civil tribunal has settled a difficult question under the Divorce law. It has annulled a marriage between a divorced woman and her ex-husband's brother, on the ground that divorce does not destroy affinity. The President of the Republic may "for serious reasons" grant a dispensation for a marriage between a brother-in-law and a sister-in-law, no matter whether the first husband or wife be dead or merely divorced, but in this case no dispensation had been applied for.

A Cincinnati man describes a novel sight he saw recently at a mill devoted to making paper of pine tree pulp. "I was invited to select a tree, which I did, and it was cut down for me in the morning. I watched it during the day undergoing the various processes of paper-making, and at 6 o'clock that evening the tree was paper. At midnight a portion of it was sufficiently dry to be taken to a printing office, and a few copies of the next morning's paper were printed on this product. From a tree to a printed newspaper in twenty-four hours is probably the best time on record."

The Whiskey Trust Busted.

Attorney-General Maloney, of Illinois, has been directed by Judge Gibbons, of Chicago, to prepare a judgment of ouster against the whiskey trust. If Judge Gibbons' decision in the case is sustained, it will end the corporate existence of the trust, which is a consummation devoutly to be wished.

According to a recent pamphlet by an Italian doctor, a sure way of restoring life in cases of syncope is to hold the patient's tongue firmly. After two other doctors had worked for an hour without result over a young man who was apparently drowned, he thrust a syringe into the patient's mouth, seized the tongue and worked it violently until the patient gave signs of life.
